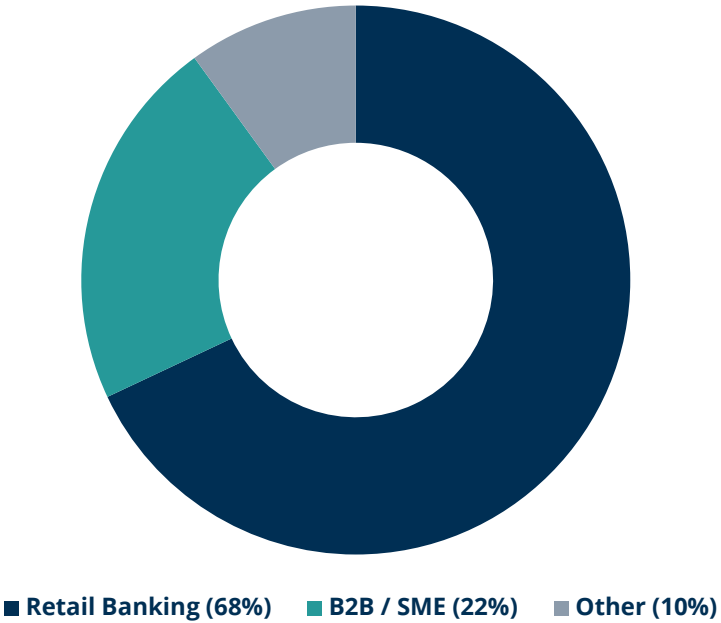
MARKET REVENUE SEGMENTATION

B2B/SME IS THE FASTEST-GROWING SEGMENT AT +67% YOY, WHILE RETAIL REMAINS THE REVENUE BACKBONE AT 68%

REVENUE SEGMENTATION FOR NEOBANKS



...REVEALS DIVERSIFICATION OPPORTUNIT

Retail Banking — 68%

Core revenue driver for all neobanks. Revolut, Monzo, and Starling all anchor on retail deposits and card interchange

B2B / SME — 22%

Fastest growing segment at +67% YoY. Revolut Business, expense management, and multi-currency accounts driving adoption

Other — 10%

Crypto trading, stock trading, insurance products. High margin but volatile; regulatory uncertainty limits scale

REGULATION TAILWINDS

REVOLUT SECURED UK BANKING LICENSE IN JULY 2024, A CRITICAL MILESTONE UNLOCKING FSCS DEPOSITS

REGULATORY TAILWINDS CONTINUE AS PSD2 MATURES AND NEOBANKS GAIN FULL-SERVICE BANKING PERMISSIONS

2018

PSD2 Implementation

EU Open Banking regulation forces APIs

2019

Lithuanian License

Revolut obtains EU banking license

2022

FCA Regulation

Full FCA-regulated status in UK

Jul 2024

UK Banking License

Full UK banking license obtained

Pending

FSCS Protection

Deposit protection pending activation

Key Implication: UK banking license allows Revolut to hold deposits directly (vs. safeguarding), enabling lending products, higher NIM, and FSCS deposit insurance: the single biggest driver of primary account conversion.
EU passporting via Lithuanian license provides pan-European coverage across 38 markets.

UK NEOBANK MARKET TRENDS

UK NEOBANK MARKET IS TRANSITIONING FROM ACQUISITION TO MONETISATION — NET CUSTOMER ADDS DECLINED YOY IN H1 2024

Early Adoption — Past

Hyper Growth — Past

Maturation — Current ▼

Consolidation — Next

Net Adds H1 2024

First YoY decline

Combined UK neobank net customer additions declined YoY for the first time — signaling market saturation

Primary Account

14% of UK adults

Up from 9% — users shifting from secondary to primary, but ceiling approaching faster than expected

Account Switches

2.1M (+14% YoY)

Neobanks capturing 38% of all switches (vs. 29% prior year) — taking share from incumbents

Competitive advantage will shift from user acquisition to monetisation depth (revenue per user, primary account %, deposits)

02. COMPETITIVE LANDSCAPE & DYNAMICS

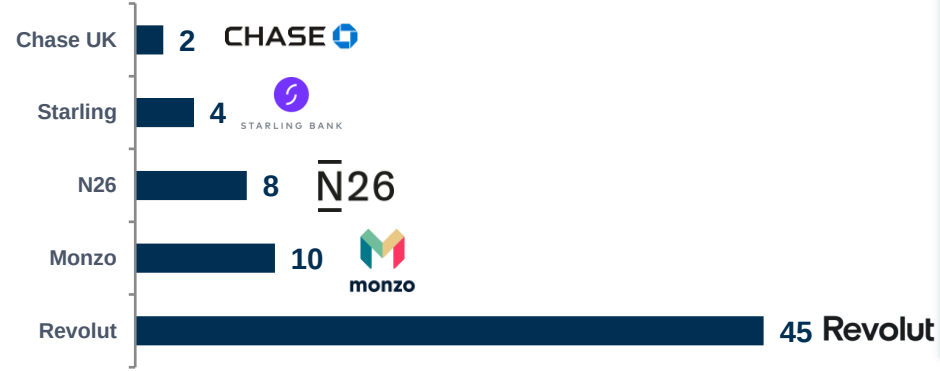
OPHYS

COMPETITIVE LANDSCAPE

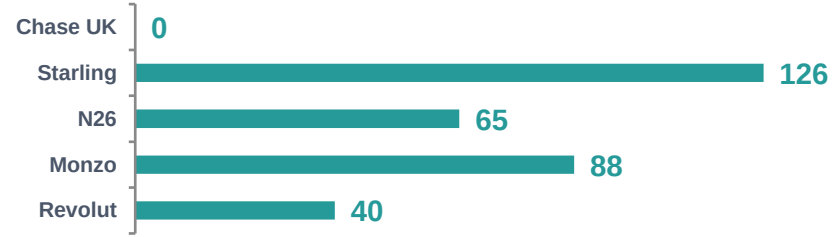
REVOLUT LEADS EUROPE WITH 45M USERS ACROSS 38 MARKETS, BUT UK-FOCUSED PLAYERS GAIN GROUND

POSITIONING MAP REVEALS REVOLUT'S SCALE ADVANTAGE OFFSET BY LOWER PER-USER MONETISATION VS. COMPETITORS

Total Users (M)



Revenue per User (£)



Scale vs. Monetisation Paradox

Revolut's £40 global rev/user is 55% below Monzo's £88 UK-focused figure. Starling leads at £126 — demonstrating the premium of domestic focus and primary account depth over international breadth.

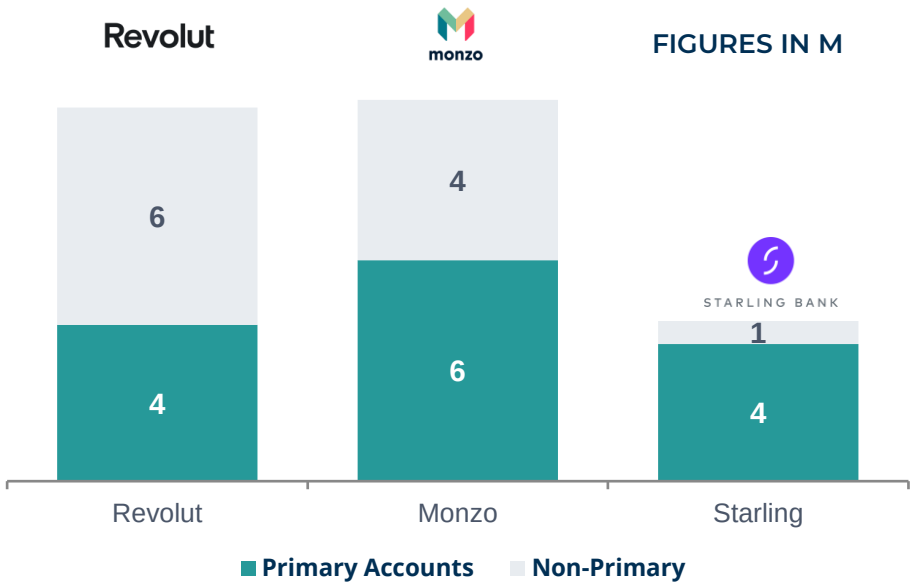
PRIMARY ACCOUNT BREAKDOWN PER COMPETITOR

REVOLUT'S 9.8M UK USERS MASK A "PRIMARY GAP" — ONLY 4.1M USE IT AS THEIR MAIN BANK VS. MONZO'S 5.8M

PRIMARY ACCOUNT METRIC IS THE SINGLE STRONGEST PREDICTOR OF MONETISATION POTENTIAL



Primary Account Rate

Revolut: 42% of UK users are primary
Monzo: 58% of UK users are primary
Starling: 86% of UK users are primary

The "Tourist Account" Problem

Revolut's 9.8M UK users include 5.7M non-primary accounts — users who signed up for travel FX or crypto but never switched salary deposits.

Monzo leads Revolut by 41% on UK primary accounts (5.8M vs 4.1M)

Primary account = salary deposit destination — the metric that matters most for monetisation (lending, overdraft, savings products)

Scale vs. Depth

Revolut wins on total users (45M) but Monzo wins on UK unit economics (£88 vs £40 rev/user)

Primary Account = King

Monzo's 5.8M primary accounts generate 2.2x more revenue per UK user than Revolut's 4.1M

Starling's Premium Model

Smallest player by users but highest rev/user (£126) — proving that deep monetisation beats broad acquisition
